

BRIEFLETS.

—Frosty Friday.
—Temple of Honor night.
—November reaches its majority to-day.
—Hot punches are plenty, but few arrests.
—Its getting almost quiet enough to have another murder.
—Rev. Mr. Jones returned on this afternoon train from the South.
—The Pembler house 'bus has been greatly improved in appearance by being repainted.

—The Supreme Court wants a further abstract made in the Dickerson case as well as that of Mrs. Mack, and the attorneys are busy preparing it.
—The Odd Fellows' dance at Apollo hall last evening was largely attended, and everybody who went seemed to get a due amount of enjoyment out of it.
—The young people of Christ church will give an entertainment at Lippin's hall, and a dance at Apollo hall, next Tuesday evening.

—The funeral services of Mr. John Reckinger are to be held at the residence, next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. G. W. Lawrence officiating.

—Carpenter & Gowdy have put up a frame building to shelter from the storm and wind their horses and men who have such a tread mill life of it cutting wood.

—The Circuit Court was in session for an hour or so this morning, but as there seemed to be nothing ready to be acted upon, adjournment was taken until Monday morning.

—William Ruhlting & Co., of Milwaukee have just published a new book by James Croghan, entitled "Electric Light." It is dedicated to Miss Fannie R. Roberts, daughter of W. G. Roberts, of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

—A few counterfeit silver dollars are appearing in Janesville, and once in a while a dealer gets duped by one. They are much lighter than the genuine, give a crackling sound when bitten, and have a greasy feeling.

—General Bluthoff, of the Darlington Republican, is in the city to-day and expects to remain until Monday. He is warmly greeted by the many friends and acquaintances, who gladly improve this chance of giving him a hand shake.

—The Rifles dedicated their new armory last evening by giving a dance, which was not very largely attended, but which was heartily enjoyed by all who participated. Early in the evening the Rifles gave a street parade in which they showed up well.

—A farmer's team took a run along Main street last evening, collided with a lamp-post, knocking the glass out but not breaking the post, then turning in by Doty's mill sapped the wagon tongue off, and subsided. Too much grain aboard is said to be the cause of the item.

—The Citizens Committee of Investigation met Wednesday at the residence of Wm. A. Lawrence, who is one of the members, but Mr. Lawrence's illness prevented them going on with the report, and adjournment was taken until his health shall so far improve as to enable him to take his part in the matter.

—John Dailey, an eleven year old boy, was arrested by Constable Cutts this morning for stealing wood from the Milwaukee & St. Paul yard. He squealed lustily, and gave the names of a number of other boys and girls who had been getting fuel there. The pilfering has been quite extensive, and the railroad men propose to end it.

—What ails Wilson? He says the hyas fight, the first account of which appeared in the Gazette, was a mere advertising dodge. Some have taken the pains to exhibit the bloody remains of the slain hyas to prove that the Gazette account was correct, and that the fight really did take place, but it seems needless to bother about retelling the Times' charge in a community where Mr. Robbins and the Times are both known. The public need no evidence in such a case.

—The officers of the Northwestern Dairyman's Association are looking about for a place in which to hold their next annual convention. For three years past they have held their conventions in Chicago, and many think now it should be held in this State, and are favorable to holding it in Janesville. It would be a good thing for the Association and a good thing for Janesville if they should decide to hold it here. Other cities offer them a large hall to hold their meetings in without cost, and add to the inducements the promise of getting many new members. It may be a good thing if a Citizens Committee was appointed, or some other step taken, to see what can be done in the matter here, for if such inducements are offered here as other cities give, there is scarcely any doubt but that Janesville can secure it.

—ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK, best accommodations, reduced prices.

THE GUARDS ELECTION.

At the annual meeting of the Janesville Guards held last evening, the following were elected as the civil officers of the company:
President—O. H. Fathers.
Vice-President—J. B. Doe, Jr.
Secretary—George H. Woodruff.
Financial Secretary—Will H. Doe.
Treasurer—H. J. Lawrence.
Judge Advocate—J. W. Bates.
Surgeon—J. W. St. John.
Chaplain—T. W. MacLean.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.
The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 38 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 12 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 9 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 21 degrees above.
On year ago at 7 o'clock a. m. the thermometer stood at 31 degrees above, and at 2 o'clock p. m. at 40 degrees above.
The indications to-day are for the upper

Missouri valleys, falling barometer, warmer south to west winds, partly cloudy weather, and in the northern portions possibly light snow or rain.

FRIGHTFUL FALL.

A Young Lady Plunges Headlong a Distance of Twenty Feet Striking on the Stones Below.

About half-past nine o'clock this morning Miss Anna Heise, the daughter of William Heise, who keeps a saloon at No. 30, West Milwaukee street, met with a frightful accident. The family live in the second story of that brick block, and at the rear is a wide platform surrounded by a rail, and from which are stairs leading to the alleyway below. Miss Heise stepped out upon this stoop, and went to the rail to throw down a handkerchief to her father, who was standing in the alleyway waiting for it. The place where the young lady was standing was icy, some water having been spilled there, and as she leaned over the rail, and threw the handkerchief, her feet slipped, she lost her balance, and with a scream plunged over the rail, down, down, a distance of over twenty feet, striking with a heavy thud upon the ground which was paved with small stones. Her father tried to grasp her as she fell, and lighten the blow, but it was in vain. As she struck upon the stones, the blood gushed from her wounds, leaving a crimson pool to mark the spot. Moaning and groaning with pain she was carried into the house, and Dr. Palmer was summoned. He found that the girl's left arm was broken, both bones being fractured. Her nose was crushed, and her lip cut through. There were some slight injuries, and she seemed to suffer great pain in the neck and head, the force of the fall having affected her in that part of the body, as when she struck, it was upon her face and shoulder. The injuries are not such as will necessarily prove fatal, and there seems to be good reason for expecting her recovery. Escaped from speedy death seems most strange when one looks upon the scene of the accident, and the flinty stones upon which she fell so heavily.

Miss Heise is about twenty years old, and has been living for some time in Detroit, from whence she returned home only about two weeks ago.

A MINISTER relates his experience thus: I take pleasure in adding to your many testimonials, that last Thursday (Thanksgiving Day), not being able to preach on account of rheumatic pains in the shoulder, I bought a bottle of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after using several times, relieved me wonderfully.

Dr. B. P. Fick, Rochester, New York.

REFORMED TRAMPS.

There promises to be fewer tramps this winter than heretofore. Work is more plenty and many of those who have spent their time in travelling about the country, and begging their board, are now at work, and are tired of the tramp business. Among such is one young man, who is now at work near this city. For six years he has tramped it and became a thorough professional. He says that he first got in the habit by honestly seeking work, and going from place to place to find it. He fell into the company of others of longer experience and before long became shiftless and got into that frame of mind which made him hate to work. He denies that during these years he himself ever was guilty of stealing, but says the majority of tramps whom he traveled with did steal when opportunity afforded. A year or so ago he first struck Janesville and was locked up in jail here several times, the last being for forty days. At the expiration of this term he secured work on a farm, and has now labored industriously for five or six months, and says he has forever quit tramping, and proposes to make a man of himself. His employer says he gives the best of satisfaction. He is intelligent, honest and trustworthy, and is doing grandly by himself and the world. His past history is known only to some of the officers, and he bids fair to redeem his manhood.

Doubtless there are other such cases, which have reduced the ranks of the travelling bands of idlers, but those who have deserted are from the better class. The tramps who remain are as a rule not only professional vagrants but professional criminals. Work is plenty but they won't work. They prefer to beg and to steal. So while we are to be annoyed by so many tramps, it is well to have a cautious fear of those who do come, and not encourage them through mistaken charity. Such tramps are now abroad in the land are the worst remnants of humanity which are left from the great horde which has in years past moved through the country like grasshoppers. Look out for them.

THE ILLUSTRATED CHRISTIAN WEEKLY.

We invite the attention of all persons seeking a pleasing as well as profitable visitor, to the merits of this paper.

Fully illustrated as it is, with some of the finest specimens of wood engraving ever given in this country, with its contents varied and interesting, its able editorials on current topics, selections carefully made, with Notes on the International Lessons, it stands without a rival as a model family paper, the only one of the kind in the country.

Giving as it does twelve pages weekly, with about 400 cuts yearly, elegantly printed on fine paper, and at the low price of $2.50 per year, postpaid, we do not think that for quality or price it can be excelled. Address Illustrated Christian Weekly, 150 Nassau street, New York.

THAT FUNNY MAN.

John Dillon, the funny man, the man who makes you laugh when you have the blues, the button-buster, is to be at the Opera house Monday night. The play is new and strikes the popular mind just right. It's titled "Our Next President, or the Dark Horse." The company including such artists as Miss Dillon and Mr. Blaisdell, is strong. The St. Paul Globe says:

John Dillon opened to a crowded house

Opera House being filled, and a hundred or more standing in the aisles. The play, "Our Next President," was a new one to St. Paul audiences, but, judging by the way it was received, it is destined to become extremely popular. Mr. Dillon as Silas Pettibone, fully sustained his reputation as the most comical man on the stage. He kept the audience in good humor throughout his every word and gesture provoked shouts of laughter. The situations are extremely comical, and are made the most of by Mr. Dillon. Mr. Blaisdell, as Alfred Harwood, sustained his role admirably, while Miss Louise Dillon, as Millie Ellsworth, was excellent in every respect. The play was well mounted and acted throughout by its many excellent members. We will have something further to say in regard to the play to-morrow. The play will be repeated this evening, and a full house is assured.

Among the Useful Toilet Articles.

We notice a much liked preparation for the hair, possessed of properties so remarkable that no one who cares to own a clean and healthy scalp with beautiful hair should pass it untried. Its properties are cleansing, invigorating and healing, and after a few applications the hair ceases to fall. Dandruff and Humors disappear, and the hair grows clean, soft and silky. It keeps the head cool and comfortable and gradually restores the hair, if gray or faded, to the natural and life like color, beautiful to look upon. It is Parker's Hair Balsam that has won such popular approval by its many excellent and beautiful properties. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents, and $1.00, by all first class druggists.

A DARE-DEVIL JEHU.

How He Shocked Up a Party of Grumbling English Tourists.

From the Washington Capital.
Buffalo Bill tells a good story about a party of Englishmen traveling on the plains before the Pacific Railroad was finished. They came grumbling into Laramie, abusing the driver and the coach and the "blasted country" generally, because they averred, there was "no coaching driving outside of England." Their contempt of all things American was shown in the offensive manner to all the people standing around as they alighted. It happened that Bob Scott, the finest driver and most reckless dare-devil on the plains, was to take the coach to the next station, eight miles westward from Laramie, and as that gay Jehu heard the remark of the Britishers, he slowly made up his mind to give them a specimen of purely American coaching. The stable boys led out six coils, that looked as if they had never heard of a stage before; they reared and snorted, plunged and kicked until the noble Britons were quite delighted with the anticipation of a fine drive.

"Now, driver, you know, just give 'em their heads and let 'em go; don't you be afraid, my boy."

"Yes," said another encouragingly, "my good fellow, just go ahead."

Bob mounted the box slowly while a man held each horse. He gathered the reins and said quickly, "Let 'em go." And they did, and the coils plunged and reared, but Bob's iron grasp held them in. With the aid of the California brakes he held them down to a walk for three miles, while passengers blasphemed at him for a "mad" and a "sneak." At the end of three miles they got to the top of a hill, and the Briton poked his head out of the window and began to say something, but as he did a wild, unearthly yell waked that vicinity, and at the same time Bob threw all six horses down. The coach seemed to lift from the ground, and those six coils started at the very best speed they could make. Another yell from Bob and the coach started off like a rocket, and he drew his revolver and began firing over the horses' heads.

"Great God," cried the Britons, "we've got into the hands of a blasted lunatic!" "Stop, stop!" they shouted; but the mad man and crazy driver tore on faster and faster, while the stage went bouncing over the rocky road in a way that threatened to pound the passengers to pieces. Bob craned his neck over and yelled into the window.

"Gents, I'm just getting 'em started, they'll do better after a while." And he took out the lamps and hurled them at the leaders with a wild Comanche war-whoop.

The frightened passengers presently saw the station in full view, the question now was how was the team to be stopped. They gave themselves up for gone, and hung on despairingly to the seats. It seems that the horses were accustomed to go right into the stable, coach and all, and upon they came to the open door at full speed. There was a yell from the assembled stable attendants and tavern loafers, then a frightful crash as the horse and coach went off the end of the road. Boys, put in the other team in a fresh coach, and give me a couple of cocktails. Its dull driving so doggone slow, and I'm powerful dry.

Those Englishmen waited and sent for a doctor, but they did not put down anything in their note-book about American driving.

From Rev. Sylvanus Cobb, of Boston, formerly Editor of the Christian Freeman.
"It may be some satisfaction to you to be informed of the result of the trial of the PERUVIAN SYRUP in my family. My daughter was brought low by a typhoid fever last spring, and after the fever left her she continued very weak, and the simplest food distressed her. For months she remained in the same debilitated condition; but from the 1st of September last, when she commenced taking the Syrup, the digestive functions improved, and she steadily gained strength and vivacity; and now, having taken two bottles, she is restored to a good state of health; indeed, she appears more really healthy than she has for several years past. I am of opinion that the Proctode of Iron, contained in the Peruvian Syrup was adapted to her case, and effected what no other known medicine could have effected." Sold by druggists and dealers generally. Sold in Janesville by Prentice & Evenson.
